 COMPANY

Planting love. Growing memories.

SPECIES: Pachira aquatica
 FAMILY: Malvaceae
 ZONES: USDA 9b to 11
 EXPOSURE: Bright light
 ORIGIN: South America
 HABIT: Small, evergreen
 WATER: Allow to dry between watering, good drainage

This tropical evergreen is prized for its bright green leaves and tree-like form. Easily grown indoors, it can grow quite tall when successively transplanted to larger pots over time. If a compact plant is preferred, pinch back to maintain size. Give it good light, extra humidity and be careful not to overwater ~ it will reward you with its cool and calming presence. In feng shui, Money Tree is popular for enhancing the flow of energy and abundance.

Easy Tree Care Guide for Money Tree

LIGHT	WATER	FERTILIZER
Money Tree loves bright light but not direct sun. Give the pot a quarter turn every few weeks to help keep its symmetry.	Water about once per week, but always check the soil first. The top 1" of soil should be quite dry before you water again. Pull back the moss covering to water, saturate well and let the water drain into the saucer - pour over the top again, let it drain & then empty the saucer after 15 minutes. Tip: Brown leaf tips = too dry. Water a day sooner. Spotting on edges = too much water.	During the growing season [March through September] use balanced houseplant fertilizer [such as 8-8-8]. If liquid, use at half strength about every second time you water. Correct watering and consistent fertilizer are the secrets to an amazing Money Tree.
